8 Persuasive Copywriting Masterclasses from Valhalla Cat University

One of the best direct-response marketers I ever met never sent an email, wrote a sales letter, or attended a networking event. He couldn't speak a word of English, much less read or write...

...He wasn't even physically capable of holding a pen.

This was the winning article in a site-wide writing challenge. The prize was a 2-year weekly blogging contract for the prestigious Digital Copywriters website.

This legendary "salesman" was 12 lbs. of fighting muscle. He walked tall at roughly 6 inches high, and measured just around a foot long, tip-to-tail.

Yes – he was a cat.

Over the years this miniature Viking taught me invaluable life lessons:

- Succeeding against impossible odds
- Winning friends and influencing almost-enemies
- Applying persistent persuasion to make the best sale
- Becoming a legend in your own time

The Texas Cowboy Cat Policy

My Dad is an old-fashioned Texas cowboy, and they have a code:

- If Mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy
- A man's hat is sacred
- A cat's place is in the barn

Also, never feed cats; and, most importantly, under no circumstances up to and including the zombie apocalypse, no cats in the house. There is no appeal.

Sell Me the Writer's Life – Headline & Lead Contest

Headline:

Start Life Debt Free

The Best Way to Beat Student Loans

Lead:

What if there was a way to start your career before entering college?

And what if that career was so lucrative that, even just working part time, you could incur no student debt?

Life is so not fair...

Some kids get to go to college driving nice new cars, drinking to excess, and generally partying their way to an easy degree and a good job.

Others of us work our tails off getting the best grades for top-notch degrees, all the while handling part time jobs to keep body and soul together. Then, on the other side, we are mired in tens of thousands of dollars of debt, and face an ever-growing lack of college-level jobs.

"With Just One Small Insight You Could Refocus Your Strategy and Make it more Effective for Your Needs!"

As one of my consulting clients said after a call, it just takes one small insight to make a huge difference in your marketing and copywriting strategy.

Sometimes you just need someone with a fresh pair of eyes to go through copy that isn't performing the way it used to. Simple tweaks, updates, and a few benefit-rich headings can make a world of difference!

A business coach tested multiple copywriters to find someone who could help improve her landing page. This [6-page review] led to a completely overhauled sign-up process...
